Projects

Music recommendation based on face emotional recognition | Lead Developer

A Music Recommendation System based on Facial Emotion Recognition uses a camera to detect the user's facial expressions and identify their current emotion, such as happy, sad, angry, surprised, or neutral. Based on the detected emotion, the system recommends suitable songs or playlists.

The system generally uses image processing and machine learning/deep learning techniques to analyze facial features. It can provide a personalized music experience and help users discover songs according to their mood.

Online Book Donate Management System | Developer

An Online Book Donation Management System is a web-based platform that helps users donate and receive books easily. Donors can upload book details, while users can search and request available books. It helps manage book donations efficiently and promotes book sharing.
